Description: We met as a team the first few days of each semester / block, getting the students where they needed to be, dropping those who weren't coming, etc. We focused on helping make sure that students who were signed up didn't just fall through the cracks, since the make-up summer blocks are quite short (15 days each), and missed days hurt them quite a bit.

Next, we checked with those that were failing, and worked to get them back on track over the rest of the block. Some ended up not making the required efforts, but most did, and for first block, we had a ~95% passing rate, which was a bit higher than last year, so that is good. Since then, we've repeated the cycle, for the next block, and as we wrap up this last week, we are working with those students that need to buck up a bit to make the grade.

6/17/19-6/19/19; 6/24/19-6/26/19	Throughout the day	ESY Admin Team	Been working on getting students who are failing to pass, helping some individually, chatting with them personally, etc. This is the last week of the first block. I've spent time with several of them mentoring them on subjects I am familiar with to assist them to pass.
7/1/19-7/3/19	Throughout the day	ESY Admin Team	Worked on making sure students that need to be here are here, and if not, then they need to be dropped from the rolls, getting signed up if not officially signed up, etc.
7/8/19 – 7/10/19; 7/15/19 – 7/17/19	Throughout the day every day until the last week of class	ESY Admin Team	Been working on getting students who are failing to pass, helping some individually, chatting with them personally, etc. This is the last week of the first block. I've also spent time with several students mentoring them on subjects I am familiar with to assist them to pass.

Reflection:

Overall, the students are mostly good kids. Many of them have IEPs, and they need a bit of help. Many have struggled in traditional schools, and they are simply trying to get passing. Most of the students know that they do not have to be here, that it is a privilege to be here, and so we don't get too much guff from them, because otherwise, they are done, and they know that they may not graduate otherwise. It is an interesting dynamic, and I am curious to see how this would be different in a traditional school. Time will tell.

As we wrap up this second block, it has been especially satisfying to see how well many of the students have done. Those that dedicate themselves leave knowing they are better prepared for life afterwards, and the majority of the students seem to (although begrudgingly) accept this. It's been a fun and rewarding experience to participate with everyone here this summer.
